Now, fly to Chennai at Rs.999!

TruJet monsoon online booking closes on Aug. 4

Mysuru, Aug. 2 (NNN)- It is raining offers for passengers flying between Mysuru-Chennai. TruJet has introduced the monsoon offer at as cheap a rate as Rs.999 between the two cities. However, there is a catch.

This offer is only for those who book in advance online and not for those who buy the tickets at the Airport counter who have to pay the regular fare of Rs. 2,500 onwards. The offer ends on Aug. 4. Hence, there is only two days left. But the good news is that this offer is valid for two months of August-September and one can book the ticket online in advance for any day in these two months before Aug. 4.

TruJet is a 72-seater aircraft and there is good response as more and more people are finding it convenient to fly between the two cities, said Mysuru Airport Manager T.A. Gurunath, speaking to Star of Mysore today.

Every citizen in the country should be able to fly and hence Prime Minister Narendra Modi introduced the UDAN (Ude Desh ka Aam Naagrik) regional connectivity scheme where the fare is capped at Rs.2,500.

Since there is a huge discount offered even on this and now the online booking fare is just Rs.999, which is much less than the cost of Shatabdi fare between Mysuru-Chennai (around Rs. 1,010 for Chair Car and Rs. 1,860 for Executive Class), the response is expected to be really good, said Gurunath.

635 traffic violation cases on this scooter!

Fine amount stands at Rs. 63,500; rider flees leaving behind vehicle with Police

Mysuru, Aug. 2 (YDS&BCT)- If you think that with 201 traffic violation cases a Bajaj Platina bike (KA-55-E-4785) that was seized last year has maximum number of cases on a single vehicle, think twice. Here is a Honda Activa scooter with 635 traffic violation cases!

And to recover the money, the Police have to plan different strategies as even if they auction the scooter, they will not be able to recover the fine amount that stands at Rs. 63,500.

During a routine check as part of the 'Traffic Management and Road Safety Month', the Narasimharaja Traffic cops yesterday caught a Honda Activa scooter (KA-09-HD-4732) owned by one K. Madhuprasad and when the officer checked the details of the scooter, he was shocked to see that the vehicle had 635 cases and the fine amount stood at Rs. 63,500.

Accommodation for all by sharing space

The land's epics feature narratives about air travel during prehistoric times. More of believe-it-or-not reference made to flying from place to place separated by long distances on airborne vehicles always with room for one more person after they were houseful. Another instance of room for all, human beings, animals and possessions of various kinds, on a ship that sailed in turbulent water of a sea comes from legends originating in the West. To cut a long story short, the current scene in cities hosting residents having crossed the limits of manageable density in many countries across the world, including the metropolises of our country, serves as the finest example for talking about accommodation for all by sharing space. First and foremost point of sharing space at the command of the nation, officially reckoned as 12.69 lakh square miles or 32.87 sq. kms is to ensure adequate land area to pursue agriculture for raising food sufficient to achieve hunger-free nation without having to stretch hands to other countries.

The land's masses, after being called upon to join hands in making the country open defecation-free and transform its space every where into clean territory, seem to have slowed down in action over these exactly 46 months since action began across the land, including Mysuru.

While the measures of making the country's current headcount of an estimated 135 crore take to the toilet habit and give up the time-honoured pastime of littering both living and open spaces may continue into years of foreseeable future, there are goals in a long list to be pursued by both successive administrations and future generations of the country. The share of the nation's total liveable area for urban population is already on the cusp of 40 percent and steadily increasing year on year. Concomitantly, the share in the total space of the land, exclusively for rural residents, is shrinking, with the space for green cover at the receiving end of choking denizens of forests.

The multitude of urban development authorities with jurisdiction of the districts in Karnataka and elsewhere are in the act of acquiring fertile agri lands at an unprecedented pace and scale. Given the relentlessly rising density of urban populations, the dream of accommodation for all and finding space for infrastructure shall always remain a dream. The dream is sure to get wider in days ahead.

FACT AND FIXTION: 1st bhakt: Fact or fixtion? What's the difference between the two? 2nd bhakt: There's not much difference between the two nowadays. In fact, fact and fixtion complement each other, particularly where ancient India is concerned. 1st bhakt: Really? How's that? 2nd bhakt: Well, ancient India invented the zero. That's a fact. Ancient India also excelled in metallurgy. That's another fact, attested by the Ashokan pillar. So what's fixtion, and why do we need it? 2nd bhakt: *Fixtion is when we say that Ganesh's elephant head proves that ancient India performed organ transplant surgery. Man goes viral for his unusual signature

Huarmey: A man in Peru recently got his five minutes of online fame after his curious signature went viral on the social media as this guy always signs his name with the childish drawing of a kitten.

The man's signature went viral after a photo of his ID next to an official Police document signed by him were posted online by the Police in the coastal town of Huarmey.

He along with five other had been arrested on charges of gun possession and after being taken to the local Police Station and signed into jail, one signature drew the attention of officers on duty. Instead of a name or a simple scribble, 31-year-old Juan Carlos Varillas Bazán had drawn a childish doodle of a kitten.

Only after checking his ID and seeing that it featured the same drawing as a signature did they realize that they were not being trolled and that that was really the guy's signature. They thought it was hilarious so they posted the documents on the station's Facebook page for everyone to see.

World's smallest mobile phone

London: In an age when phablets and big screen smartphones are popular, one manufacturer in UK is swimming against the tide by trying to make mobile phones as tiny as possible. Their latest achievement, a phone that's smaller than the average human thumb and lighter than a metal coin.

The Zanco tiny t1 is the world's smallest mobile phone which can fit into the tiniest of pockets, can store up to 300 numbers in its phonebook and makes an adorable gift. Zanco claims that it is indeed a fully-functional 'talk and text mobile phone.' allowing users to make and receive calls, and exchange text messages.

One thing to consider before ordering one is that the phone only operates on the 2G network, so it's best to check before buying.

- Cats are mysterious, admit it (also slightly scary at times; I don't know how they manage that: being cute and scary at the same time). Unlike humans, cats' eyes are dichromatic: they only have two kinds of photoreceptors in their eyes, with eyesight similar to that of people with red-green colour blindness. This means that anything that's either red or green is seen in a completely different colour altogether. Moreover, the lower resolution of cats' eyesight means that their vision is blurrier than that of humans.

More on rainwater harvesting in city

Sir,

No doubt, water is our most precious natural resource and something which most of us take for granted. The move by Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to make rainwater harvesting (RWH) mandatory needs to be fully appreciated. But the point is that before implementing RWH as mandatory, has the Corporation authorities analysed the feasibility and practical issues the citizens would face ?

As per MCC, non-compliance of RWH would attract penalty. How can MCC insist existing buildings to have RWH process? Many of the existing buildings may not have enough space or infrastructure to adopt RWH.

Many of the Apartments in Mysuru have Cauvery water connection to one tap in the kitchen. Rest of the taps get borewell water, from the bore-wells dug in their premises itself. Owing to building design as per the MCC norms, there won't be much space to tap rainwater in the existing apartments. Can they be penalised ?

MCC themselves can take a lead in ground water recharging. They can plan for one recharging pit in every one or two sq. kms area. This will definitely increase the ground water table. Let MCC make RWH mandatory for the new buildings. Let them not sanction the plans if RWH process is not indicated and also let MCC withhold the building Completion Report (CR) if RWH is not implemented.

Rules framed by the government machinery should be of help to the citizens and not act as a catalyst to add misery and worry to the citizens.

'Say sorry even if you are right'

Sir,

This refers to the beautiful article titled "Say sorry even if you are right" by N.K.A. Ballal in SOM dated July 26.

The article was very touching and relevant to the present day lifestyle. As it is rightly mentioned by Ballal, the sense of 'ego' is coming in the way of relationship mainly due to false sense of 'ego'. The live example of the Monk Gopal Das with his father who realised his grave mistake only after the death of his father should be an eye-opener to all of us. In reality, persons having 'ego' are reluctant to accept this fact.

I read the article a couple of times and each time I was excited and realised the gravity and damage being done by our false "ego". It is true that if we come out of this "ego", our relationship with relatives and friends will have a different dimension.

Each mobile clinic will have doctors, nurses, pharmacist, laboratory technician, and junior health assistant. "Each mobile clinic vehicle will visit two villages daily in the morning and afternoon hours. Apart from examination of patients and providing them medicines, the team will spread awareness on healthcare issues," said Kharge. Patients requiring specialised treatment will be shifted to the nearest hospitals, the Minister said.

"The clinics will also be equipped with digital patient record system and enable expansion of public health network," added Kharge.

MBA student arrested for robbing Kerala tourists

Nanjangud, Aug.2 (RS&BCT)- An MBA student has been booked in Nanjangud for robbery. After robbing a few tourist students from Kerala, the accused, under the influence of drugs and alcohol, drove away with their vehicle only to meet with an accident. He has now been remanded to 15-day judicial custody.

Accused K.L. Daniel Joseph

The accused MBA student has been identified as K.L. Daniel Joseph, a resident of Ramaswamy Layout in Nanjangud. He is the member of the notorious "Gudda Gang" in Nanjangud where he, along with other members of the gang, indulged in various illegal activities. Daniel is pursuing his MBA technical course.

Last night, Daniel extorted money from a group of students who had come in their Swift car (KL-57 H-1936). The students were on a trip of Mysuru and Nanjangud. At midnight as their car was passing the St. Carmel Convent Road, Daniel flagged down the vehicle and told the occupants of the car that he was a Police Officer.

After threatening the hapless tourist students, Daniel snatched money and their mobile phones. The terrified students meekly handed over their cash and valuables to Daniel. Later, Daniel drove the car along with the students in the middle of the night.

Daniel was in an inebriated condition and unable to control the vehicle, he collided with a road divider near Kadakola Police Sub-station.

He sustained injuries on his head and the students shifted him to K.R. Hospital in Mysuru. Students, meanwhile, informed the Police and ASI Bharathi took him to Nanjangud Police Station and a case was booked against him by Inspector Shivamurthy and Sub-inspector Veerabhadrappa.

The students narrated their ordeal to the Police and said that Daniel abused and manhandled them. Later, the students were asked to take a bus to Kerala and come after a few days to take their vehicle back to their State after repairs.

Police said that Daniel is the son of a Pastor of a church in Nanjangud. He was into drugs and alcohol and was a member of "Gudda Gang" in Nanjangud.

Considering the seriousness of the offence, the Police have arrested him under robbery charges and have produced before a magistrate who has handed over Daniel to 15-day judicial custody.

With Daniel's arrest, the Police are now hoping to unravel more criminal cases that have the involvement of the "Gudda Gang". Police said that they were under tremendous pressure not to book Daniel under the robbery offence. But Mysuru Superintendent of Police Amit Singh intervened and directed the Nanjangud Police not to bow to any pressure and book Daniel under relevant criminal sections.

Faulty meters: 24
Autorickshaws fined

Mysuru, Aug.2 (RK&NNN)- Devaraja Traffic Police and the officials of the Metrology Department jointly conducted operations in different parts of the city and registered complaint against 24 autorickshwas found with faulty metres. They also collected a fine of Rs.12,000.

Autorickshaws with faulty meters and those who had not installed the electronic meters were caught and fined Rs.500 each.

The Police checked the autorickshaws in the Pre-paid auto stands in Makkaji Chowk, Gandhi Square and B.N. Road.

Only a few autos had new meters installed. It was found that most of the autorickshaws were still running using old meters. A few did not even have the meters.

Every year the meters have to be checked. If the meters are faulty then it should be repaired. Otherwise during checking if they are found faulty then the autorickshaw drivers have to pay a fine of Rs.500, warned Legal Metrology Department Inspector K.M. Mahadevaswamy.

Tigress found dead in Kabini backwaters

Big Cat was electrocuted, confirms post-mortem

Mysuru, Aug.2 (KS)- Veterinarians, who conducted post-mortem of the carcass of the tigress which was found dead in Kabini backwaters yesterday, have confirmed that it had died of electrocution.

When the Forest staff removed the carcass from the water, they found that the claws of the tigress missing and on searching nearby, a black plastic cover was found with the claws of the tigress in it. They suspected that those who had de-clawed the tigress may have been unable to take it with them fearing of being caught and had left it behind.

Serial thefts in city during Lunar Eclipse

One gang used one car
for burglaries, say Police

Mysuru, Aug.2 (RK&BCT)- The City Police are looking at all angles to crack the case where eight shops were burgled on a single night last week. So far, the Police teams have gathered some CCTV visuals where the clues have pointed out at the involvement of one gang that used one vehicle.

It may be recalled here that on the night of Friday, July 27, during Lunar Eclipse, burglars broke into eight shops in Kuvempunagar, Saraswathipuram and Jayapura Police limits. They had pried open the shutters of the shop and had looted cash, without touching any other goods including costly electronic items.

All the burglaries were not handiwork of regular lock-breaking criminals but burglars who have made use of technology for the crime. Burglars managed to open the shutters by tying the shutter handle with an iron chain. While one end of the chain was tied to the shutter handle, the other end was tied on to a vehicle. Later, the vehicle was started and it pulled the chain, forcing the shutters to open towards the front side.

The tyre marks of the vehicle were visible on the road. Some of the thefts took place close to 24x7 Police Check-Post on the Bogadi Ring Road and the personnel posted there did not even hear a sound when the shutters were being pulled with the help of a vehicle.

Investigating the case, the Police have procured CCTV visuals from the areas of the theft and have traced one car (black or grey) that has been used in all the theft cases. The Police have been able to round off the car based on the CCTV visuals captured from different localities and matched them with the time of the burglaries. All the burglaries took place between 1.30 am and 4.30 am.

Taking the burglaries seriously, City Police Commissioner Dr. A. Subramanyeswara Rao said that action will be taken against Policemen for dereliction of duty.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, he said that he has asked the Krishnaraja Assistant Commissioner of Police (ACP) to submit a report on who were on duty and their places of posting on the night of lunar eclipse.

"After I receive the report from the ACP, action will be taken on Policemen who failed to prevent the burglaries," Rao added.

Decoding Mythology

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Othering the Asuras

In Hindu mythological stories narrated in the Puranas, Brahma's son Kashyapa has two wives. One called Aditi, the other called Diti. Aditi's children are called Adityas or Devas, and they reside in the celestial realms above the sky. Diti's sons are called Daityas, and they reside in the subterranean realms known as Patal, or realms under (tala) the feet (pa). Sometimes Diti is identified as Danu and her children are called 'Danavas'. Daityas and Danavas are collectively called Asuras.

Aditi and Diti are always competing for Kashyapa's attention and their rivalry extends to their children. So Devas and Asuras keep fighting with each other. They are primal rivals, the quarrelling brothers since the dawn of time. There is never a clear reason why the two are fighting.

The Devas clearly have all the things we desire: the wish-fulfilling tree Kalpataru, the wish-fulfilling cow Kamadhenu, the wish-fulfilling jewel Chintamani, the dancing apsaras and the musical Gandharvas. The Asuras are shown as performing tapasya in order to gain powers or boons that enable them to get what the Devas have. It is never the other way round. So we may conclude that the Devas are the 'haves' and the Asuras are the 'have-nots', if one uses Marxist terminology.

But descriptions of the Patal reveal that Asuras are anything but poor. They have access to jewels that illuminate their otherwise sun-deprived dark realms. They are a land full of beautiful women, secret occult arts such as maya, siddha and tantra.

While the Devas have Amrita, the nectar of immortality, they have Sanjivani Vidya, the knowledge of resurrecting the dead. So why the rivalry then? Is it plain jealousy and greed? Asuras want what Devas have, similar to Duryodhana's jealousy in the Mahabharata and Ravana's jealousy in the Ramayana.

Devas and Asuras are brothers fighting over property, as brothers always fight over property. This primal battle of brothers extends into the Ramayana and Mahabharata. In our desire to make things simple, we have made the Devas the good guys, the moral guys, and Asuras the bad guys, or the immoral guys, evidence notwithstanding.

Since Vedic hymns are in praise of celestial 'luminous' Devas, we naturally assume that Devas are good, and so Asuras are declared as dark and bad, even though stories tend to suggest quite the opposite: Indra is notorious as he steals horses of kings and seduces wives of sages, while Bali and Prahalada and Virochana are famous for their generosity.

We are also conditioned by false directional hierarchies — all things above must be good and all things below must be bad. Sky therefore gets a moral high ground over the earth, birds become sacred and serpents notorious, an idea perhaps shaped under increasingly Christian influence from around 2,000 years ago.

In many regional versions of the Ramayana, Patal of Asuras is the land of sorcery. Here lives Mahiravan who abducts Ram and is defeated by Hanuman, who then becomes popular as Patali Hanuman, often visualised standing upside down in the topsy-turvy world of subterranean demons. In the Mahabharata, however, under the earth, is the dark realm of 'Naraka' or hell, where there is no sun or wind, and where people suffer for bad deeds in their lifetime. This confuses the realm of Asuras with Hell. Asuras become 'demons' rather than simply the half-brothers of Devas, the not-so-loved and the less entitled sons of Kashyapa. In other words, story-tellers end up 'othering' the Asuras, stripping them of humanity and divinity, as we often do to our political and intellectual opponents.

Destination Shaadi

By N.K.A. Ballal,
Retd. Sr. Vice-President, ITDC

Ballal

Marriages are made in heaven is an old saying. But at present the most preferred marriage destination in India is Udaipur [a royal heritage city in Rajasthan]. A recent survey conducted ahead of the 5th Travel Wedding Show indicated that Udaipur with a clear 25 percent is the most preferred destination in India, followed by Goa with 24 percent, Kerala 21 percent, Jaipur 15 percent and lastly Himachal with 15 percent share. What does these figures indicate? It is clear that Indians still prefer "royal heritage cities" for hosting their marriages. Udaipur and Jaipur alone bag approximately 40 percent of the destination wedding business in India.

Now let us throw some light on the expenditure of these destination weddings. The survey has brought out that a whopping 53 percent spend up to Rs. 1 crore for a wedding. Yes, you heard me right. About 27 percent spend from Rs. 1 to 2 crore, 17 percent of the newly-weds spend anything between Rs. 2 crore - Rs. 3 crore and a small minuscule 3 percent spend above Rs. 3 crore. When the same weddings are held in international venues, the expenditure shoots up and it has been brought out in the report that a whopping 49 percent spend between Rs.3 crore and 5 crore for international venue weddings.

Why is that the rich gentry prefer these cities ? It is not enough if one has just a good hotel for making the marriage function successful. All the infrastructure required like air connectivity, roads, hotels, transport, tents, catering, top class crockery, glasses, cutlery, manpower, florist, lighting etc., have to be set up in the city to ensure that top end marriages take place in the city. Over years, the cities of Udaipur and Jaipur have developed all the above infrastructure.

Lalitha Mahal Palace Hotel, Mysuru.

A wedding destination in Udaipur.

What is the reason that Mysuru with all the trappings of a heritage city does not attract top end weddings? Just try getting 30 trained uniformed waiters or 2,000 quality crockery sets for an event ! A Mysuru-based industrialist recently held a grand wedding at Mysuru and everything from tents, food, waiters, cutlery, crockery, were brought from Bengaluru and Cochin. Yes, Lalitha Mahal does host some destination weddings once in a while but these are from Bengaluru-based families and the total expenditure is in the range of Rs. 20 lakh to Rs. 25 lakh. Substandard quality when compared to the ones being held in Udaipur or Jaipur.

The total Indian wedding industry is pegged at 40 to 50 billion dollars and is the second largest market in the world after the US. That is the reason a 5th Travel Wedding Show was hosted at Jaipur recently wherein nearly 2,000 people participated. As per Rajeev Jain, the founder of an event management company, who was one of the participants of the show, the most preferred destination in the world for destination weddings is Thailand but lately people are venturing into even places like Turkey, Cyprus, Mauritius, Macau, Malta, Sri Lanka, Bali, London among other destinations.

What do wedding planners look for when they plan an event? The most important thing is hotel accommodation, pricing, brand and the quality of food and service. For international weddings, visa formalities, food, airline connectivity and the language is also considered.

Quoting a survey done, Rajeev said that in India, 50 percent of the business gets done through referrals, 20 percent through social media, 15 percent through search engines and 15 percent through other sources. But for international destinations, 43 percent is through social media and only 13 percent is by way of referrals!

Mysuru is the only destination (city) in Karnataka which can boast of a heritage hotel of some reputation. Bengaluru with its famous traffic snarls is avoided by all. If by chance one has taken a venue near the Silk Board, rest assured the baaraat will never reach the venue in time for the muhurat !

But to develop Mysuru as a wedding destination venue, it is important that another heritage hotel be developed. It is time the Government persuades the royal family to open the Rajendra Vilas Palace Hotel for business. Air connectivity, well, recent reports in the newspapers suggest some activity. Who knows, with elections round the corner, there is a possibility the airport work may also get going. Your guess is as good as mine.

Slashed Shatabdi fares increases revenue for Railways

Railway Board directs other divisions to follow Mysuru model

Mysuru, Aug.2 (RK&NNN)- The discounted fare in Shatabdi train between Mysuru and Bengaluru has not only increased the passenger traffic between the two cities but even the revenue has gone up.

According to the Railway sources, the revenue in the year 2017 due to slash in fares in the Shatabdi train has increased when compared to the previous year. In 2016, the fare for AC-3 (chair car) between Mysuru and Bengaluru was brought down from Rs.490 to Rs.260. Since then the number of people travelling between the two cities increased.

If the Railways take interest in providing passenger amenities, provide comfortable service at affordable cost, the commuters will not only show interest in rail travel but the relationship between the Railways and the passengers will also improve, feel the Railway Department officials.

Motivated by the success of the Shatabdi train between Mysuru-Bengaluru, the Railway Board has directed other Railway divisions to follow this model, it is said.

The revenue earned in the Shatabdi train between Mysuru-Bengaluru (Train No. 12008/12007) from January to December 2016 was Rs.45.98 crore. During the same period in 2017, the revenue went up to Rs.51.29 crore. It is to be noted here that even after giving discount the Department earned more.

School atop Chamundi Hill ransacked by miscreants

Property, books worth Rs. 2.5 lakh destroyed

Mysuru, Aug.2 (RK&NNN)- Miscreants broke into the Chamundi Betta Higher Primary School atop Chamundi Hill last night and ransacked rooms leaving all the classrooms in total disarray. Students and teachers, who came to the school this morning, were left dazed.

The miscreants entered the classrooms breaking the tiled roof of the school and rummaged through the books which also had the profile of the students and scattered them all round the class rooms and also threw down the tables and chairs destroying property worth Rs.2.5 lakh.

The incident came to light in the morning when the teachers and the students came to the school and were shocked to find the classrooms completely vandalised.

Immediately the Cluster Resource Person Usha Nandini and Block Resource Persons Shashiraj and Basavaraj were informed about the incident. They reached the spot and called the K.R. Police Station.

Usha Nandini, speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, said that property worth Rs. 2.5 lakh has been destroyed and they could not pinpoint the reason for the action.

She said that the miscreants removed the tiles to enter the classrooms and just ransacked the whole place. They have even smashed the bulbs and the switch board, leaving everything in a shambles.

The school started in 1957 has a total of 48 students with 37 girls and 11 boys studying from first to seventh standard. The school has two teachers and one guest teacher handling all the seven classes.

"We have been complaining to the Police and the Muzrai Department as this has happened for the second time in the last two years. But to no avail," said Nandini.

K.R. Police Inspector Prakash and staff and Gram Panchayat Members visited the school. A case has been registered and further investigation is on.

635 traffic violation cases on this scooter!

The traffic violations were caught on CCTV cameras installed at various junctions in city and the Police, based on the CCTV footages had fed the information on Smartphones that is accessed and operated by traffic Policemen at junctions.

Soon after his vehicle was stopped, the rider of the vehicle ran away. The Police later brought the vehicle to a Police Station and have parked it there. Now the Police have a new headache as they have to find ways and means to recover the fine amount. Even if they auction the scooter, the Police will not be able to recover the fine amount.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Jayakumar, Inspector of Narasimharaja Traffic said that though the vehicle is owned by K. Madhuprasad as the RC book has been registered in his name, they have to check if the owner has sold the vehicle or not.

"We will issue notices to the vehicle owner as per procedure and also file a case. We will wait for the directives from the Court. Either way, the owner of the vehicle must cough up the fine," he said.

It may be recalled here that on Nov. 2, 2017, the city Traffic Police stumbled upon a Bajaj Platina bike and discovered that the bike had 201 traffic violation cases against it. The owner was identified as Roshan Ali Baig, a resident Rajivnagar in city.

When the cops asked him to pay a fine of Rs. 20,100 for the violations, the man told them that the bike cost him Rs. 10,000 and he does not have so much money to pay the fines and left the bike with the cops.

Woman stranded in Shimla to be brought to city tonight

Mysuru, Aug. 2 (RK&BCT)- A woman from Periyapatna, who was lodged at Himachal Hospital of Mental Health and Rehabilitation at Shimla, will be brought to Mysuru tonight to be reunited with her family. She is expected to arrive in city at 9.30 pm.

The Mysuru District Administration that was making all efforts to bring Saraswathi alias Padma back to her hometown has succeeded in its efforts. Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar, Women and Child Welfare Department and Health Department coordinated with the Himachal hospital authorities and the Shimla administration to bring Saraswathi to Mysuru.

It may be recalled here that Star of Mysore, on July 15, had published a report 'Periyapatna woman, who disappeared two years ago, to reunite with family soon'. The report highlighted the plight of 40-year-old Saraswathi from Makanahalli Palya near Kampalapura at Periyapatna who went missing two years ago. Saraswathi had boarded a train from Channarayapatna and reached Chandigarh and then New Delhi. Later she was shifted to Rajendra Prasad Hospital at Kangra in Himachal Pradesh from where she was shifted to Himachal Hospital of Mental Health and Rehabilitation.

Following reports in the media, the Mysuru District Administration decided to bring Saraswathi to Mysuru and the process was initiated by the DC. A team was formed under the leadership of Dr. Manju Prasad, District Mental Health Project Officer, Manjula Patil of Women and Child Development Department, Saraswathi's brother Mahadevu and a woman Constable.

The team was sent to Shimla on Tuesday (July 31) and the team is expected to reach Mysuru tonight. Saraswathi was given a warm farewell by Himachal Pradesh Chief Minister Jayaram Thakur. Incidentally, the CM's wife Sahana Thakur is a Kannadiga and hails from Bengaluru.

Receiving Saraswathi at the CM's house, Jayaram Thakur and his wife felicitated Saraswathi with the traditional shawl and Himachal cap. Sadhana, who hails from Chamarajpet in Bengaluru, spoke to the team and Saraswathi in Kannada and wished them good luck.

After meeting the CM, the team has headed towards Mysuru and is expected to take a flight to Bengaluru at 3.30 pm. Saraswathi will be brought to Mysuru at around 9.30 pm today and will be sheltered at Shakthidhama (rehabilitation centre for women) at the foot of Chamundi Hill.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Additional Deputy Commissioner T. Yogesh and District Health Officer Dr. B. Basavaraju said that Saraswathi was healthy and needed rest. He said that Saraswathi will be at Shakthidhama till a proper house will be built for her family at Makanahalli Palya. "We have visited her place at Makanahalli Palya and have spoken to her family members. As her family has expressed inability to take her back now as Saraswathi's mother's house has collapsed, we are accommodating her at Shakthidhama," they said.

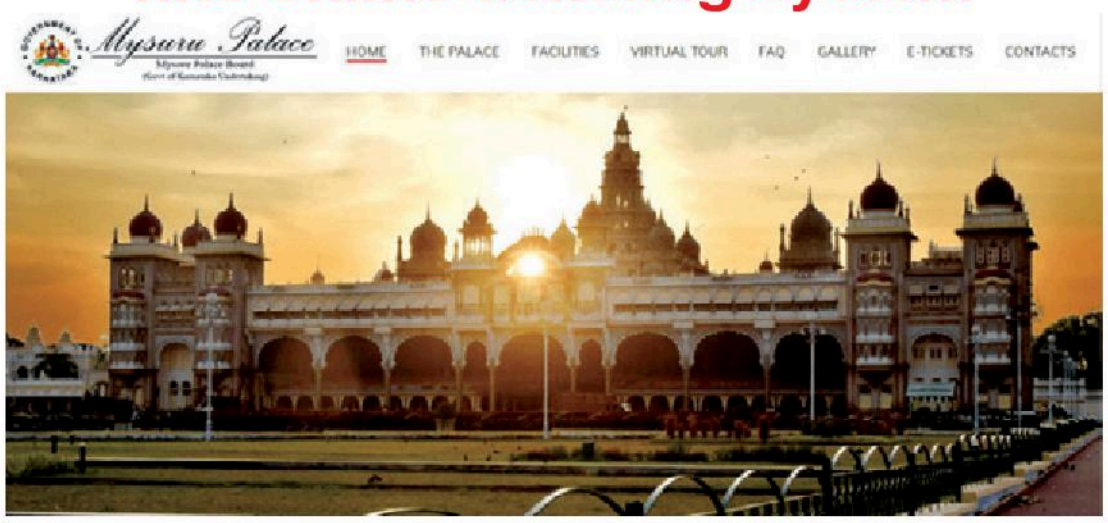
Mysore Palace Board website glitch hits online ticketing system



Mysuru, Aug. 2 (KS) - Online ticketing facility has been affected following a glitch in the Mysore Palace Board website since yesterday. Star of Mysore office received many calls from tourists since last evening with the callers complaining that the website www.mysorepalace.gov.in which used to provide e-ticketing facility was defunct.

Future Design Technologies had designed and upgraded the interactive website which was user-friendly with e-ticketing system and world-class design. The facility was inaugurated by the then District Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa on Aug. 17, 2017.

Following frequent calls, SOM contacted Naveen Kavirathna of Future Design Technologies who said that the server had become inactive as the Palace Board authorities did not renew the annual website maintenance contract with his company. He said that despite sending letters on July 23 and July 28 to the Palace Board Deputy Director seeking permission to renew the contract, he has not received any communication in this regard so far.

Palace Board clarifies: Reacting on the present state of the website, Palace Board Deputy Director T.S. Subramanya said that the server was inactive as it is being shifted to a government e-governance and State Bank of India (SBI) server from the present private server. This would take two to three days, he added.

He further said that since the Palace Board has its account in SBI, the amount of tickets purchased online would be instantly credited into the Palace Board account. This was not happening earlier as money was being credited one or two days late. He said that the online e-ticketing facility will commence in a day or two.

When asked about the validity of already-purchased online tickets where tourists are yet to visit the Palace, Subramanya said that very few people had purchased online tickets. The tickets, purchased online through private server are valid for six months and the tourists can choose any time of their visit, he said.

However, according to Naveen, each online ticket comes with a Quick Response (QR) code which has to be scanned by the ticket collector and the server has to respond to check the authenticity of the ticket. As the server is down, e-tickets cannot be validated and this would inconvenience the visitors who have purchased online tickets.

Naveen further said that the e-Ticketing system provided by him has passed the security audit done by CERT (Computer Emergency Response Team) empanelled security auditor and added that this is the only ticketing system in city which has got this certificate.

KRS entry fee revenue touches Rs.1 crore in two months

Mysuru, Aug.2 (RK&NNN)-The entry fee collection to the Krishna Raja Sagar Dam in the month of June and July has touched Rs.1 crore. This follows hundreds of tourists who visit the Dam that has been filled to the brim, thanks to copious rain in the Cauvery catchment areas.

Water is regularly being released from the dam and this in turn increased the tourist flow. This is the first time in the last four years that the tourists from far and near and also from abroad are coming in large numbers to watch the water spectacle.

The crest gates are regularly being opened and the tourists are overjoyed to see the gushing waters. The different coloured illumination of the dam during nights also added to the allure.

The revenue in June through entry fees is Rs.53.76 lakh and till July 31 it is Rs. 46.76 lakh. In these two months the total collection was Rs. 1.52 crore.

Last year due to less rainfall, the dam was not full. The collection in June that year was Rs.44.81 lakh and in July it was Rs. 36.05 lakh. Due to less rainfall last year the dam was not full. However, due to heavy rainfall this year, the revenue to the Cauvery Neeravari Nigam Limited (CNNL) has gone up by Rs.19.66 lakh in these two months together.

The revenue in July came down because the entry to the north Gate had been banned as the water had been released, said the CNNL officials.

The rainfall has slackened in Kodagu region and only 7,000 cusecs of water is flowing into the KRS reservoir and 5,000 cusecs is being released. The sources said that the maximum water level at the dam is being monitored.

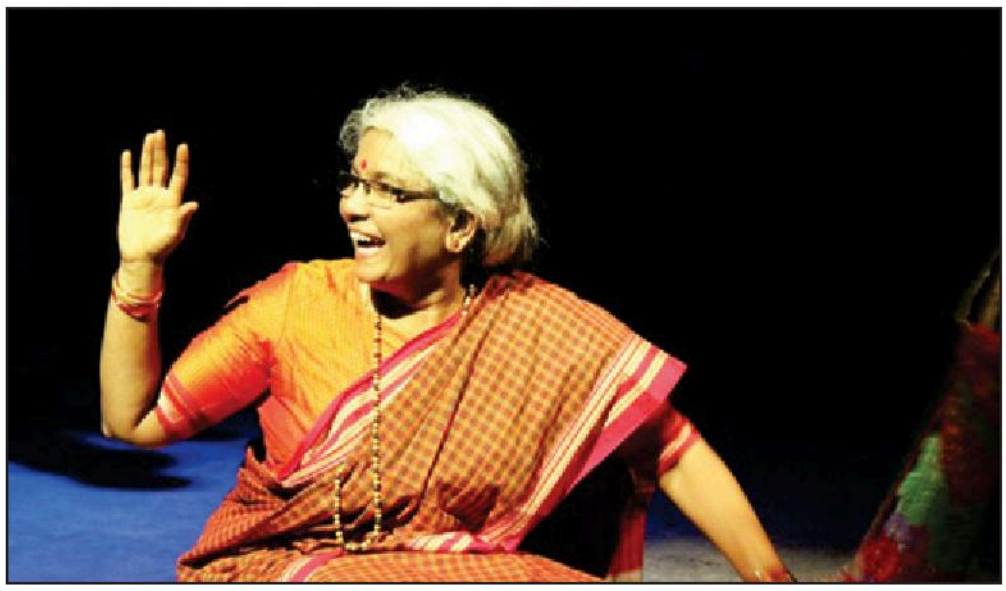
As Kamala blooms in Bhagirathi...



The Kannada play 'Kamaladevi Chattopadhyay: Kelavu Nenapugalu' will be presented by Seagull Theatre and Ba-Srushti at Kirurangamandira in Kalamandira premises tomorrow (Aug. 3) at 7 pm. The play, based on Kamaladevi Chattopadhyay's autobiography, is written by Vaidehi while Design and Direction is by Rangayana Director Bhagirathi Bai Kadam. Here we publish a review of the play that was staged at Bhoomigeeta on July 1, 2018. Entry ticket is Rs. 50.—Ed

By Vighnesh Hampapura

Bhagirathi Bai Kadam is a theatrical force to be reckoned with and her recent production 'Kamaladevi Chattopadhyay: Kelavu Nenapugalu' is an exemplar of that force. In her charismatic performance of Kamaladevi's vibrant profile, there's a nutritive love for life.

Kamaladevi Chattopadhyay is a multi-faceted woman — an authority on traditional knowledge, an adept artiste, a feisty freedom fighter, a voice for equality, a roar against injustice, a patron of handicrafts and a mother to theatre.

Kamaladevi's life never glided like a river though. Fortuity struck with both pleasure and pain. So the play says: "The road is what you walk on; the goal is what you reach." The play carries many such reflections, pensively uttered by a grey-haired Kamaladevi, who weaves the story of her entire life, sitting in front of the handloom she herself revived. By the way, Bhagirathi does not tread the easy path by letting a little girl prance around the stage as little Kamala — from eight to eighty, every facet of Kamaladevi is captured by Bhagirathi.

Kamaladevi was a rebel. She stood her ground defying the boundaries of a conservative society. The freedom that her efficacious resolutions gave her was. A peek into that freedom is through Kamala's grandmother, a widow, who walks on stage and dauntlessly declares that her jaunts with Mapille won't stop just because a few knuckleheads gossip about it.

As soon as Bhagirathi moves to this wing of the stage — the setting reminiscent of old Mangalore homes — to introduce this grandmother and many other childhood stories, a youthful verve and naughtiness take over her. "Naa mundu, Taa mundu," she chuckles. But who really is mundu (forward) is Bhagirathi. There isn't a scene without her in the entire two hours.

This is a one-woman show, just like Kamaladevi's life in a way. There is more than this to the uncanny resemblance Bhagirathi's life has with Kamaladevi. Both celebrate the spirit of theatre. Kamaladevi was born and brought up in Mangalore, married Harindranath from Bengal, built theatre troupes with him, acted in a few noteworthy films, and established the erstwhile National School of Drama (NSD) in New Delhi.

Bhagirathi is a native of Gavadagere in Hunsur, Karnataka and was a student at that NSD. She married Baharul Islam from Assam, with whom she founded and runs the Seagull Theatre Company and is actively contributing to theatre since twenty-five years.

While B. V. Karanth served as Director of Kamaladevi's NSD, Bhagirathi Bai is now the Director of Karanth's Rangayana. And the final touch springs from the fact that this play is now being staged for the first time in Kannada, after successful shows in Hindi — offering Kamaladevi's soul a contentment of mother-tongue and Bhagirathi, a comeback after several years.

In this innovative play — adapted from Vaidehi's manuscript — one can see Bhagirathi's dexterity as a Director. She understands the visual property of theatre.

The play braids the story of Indian independence with Kamaladevi's. Bhagirathi strides saying "Kadam kadam badaye jaa…," and it feels like a protest. She auctions salt, throws the invisible packets around, and we are almost compelled to catch them. Theatre is a live medium and Bhagirathi taps into this significance to her own benefit.

The scenes in the prison are assembled with just stage lighting, shadows forming the bars of the prison. On it lays Kamala. There's visual meaning in just every scene: the fish-net drawn through the stage is the Radcliffe line of partition, Kamaladevi who crosses over that is the messiah, the Charaka is Gandhi, bursts of lights are shots of a gun.

And what can we say about Bhagirathi's acting? It's a spot-on performance that takes us in. When as a child, Kamala was pulled away from the stage by her mother, she is agitated and stomps the feet like a child whose candy has been snatched away. We see the child and all emotions in the persona — demure, innocence, agony, righteousness, amusement and ferocity.

She even mimics Margaret Cousins, Gandhi and Nehru along the way. Even that feels real, because Bhagirathi captures the essence. The emotional truth of the performance makes it more real than impersonations because that truth contains the immortal beauty of Kamaladevi's soul.

It is not often that we get to watch two female forces on a single stage, in a single evening. But there's one more show. 'Kamaladevi Chattopadhyay: Kelavu Nenapugalu'* is being staged at Kirurangamandira in city at 7 pm on Aug.3 (Friday).

World Championship

Sindhu, Kidambi Srikanth and Sai Praneeth win

Nanjing (China), Aug.2- P.V. Sindhu and Kidambi Srikanth notched up contrasting wins to progress to the pre-quarterfinals but World No.11 H.S. Prannoy suffered a shock defeat to unheralded Brazilian Ygor Coelho to bow out of the World Championship here on Wednesday.

Olympics silver medallist Sindhu, who had got a bye in the first round, opened her campaign with an easy 21-14, 21-9 win over Indonesia's Fitriani. The 23-year-old Indian, who won the silver medal last year, will face Korean Sung Ji Hyun, a 2015 World Championship bronze medallist, in the next round.

Srikanth, seeded fifth, recovered from a slump during the hard-fought contest to see off Spain's Pablo Abian 21-15, 12-21, 21-14 in a second-round match that lasted 62 minutes.

The 25-year-old Indian, who had clinched four titles last year, will lock horns with Malaysia's Daren Liew, a former World No.10, who had won the 2012 French Open Super Series.

B. Sai Praneeth also entered the next round after defeating Spain's Lus Enrique Penalver 21-18, 21-11 to set up a meeting with Denmark's Hans-Kristian Solberg Vittinghus.

However, Prannoy and Sameer Verma bowed out of the tournament. Prannoy, seeded 11th, couldn't hold on to the momentum after breezing through the opening game to eventually lose 21-8, 16-21, 15-21 to Coelho, ranked 39th in the world.

Later, Sameer failed to get across former two-time Olympic champion Lin Dan, losing 17-21, 14-21 in a 45-minute match.

It also turned out to be a disastrous day for the Indian Doubles pairs as all of them lost their respective matches to crash out of the prestigious tournament.

WORD OF THE DAY

Muliebrity

Pronunciation: myoo-lee-EB-ruh-tee.

Meaning: The quality of being a woman; femininity.
Origin: Muliebrity has been used in English to suggest the distinguishing character or qualities of a woman or of womankind since the 16th century. (Its masculine counterpart, virility, entered the language at about the same time.) Muliebrity comes from Latin mulier, meaning "woman," and probably is a cognate of Latin mollis, meaning "soft." Mollis is also the source of the English verb mollify—a word that implies a "softening" of hurt feelings or anger.
Example: Helene tried to convey to her daughter that muliebrity was best expressed not by dressing a certain way or conforming to others' expectations, but by being her own true, confident self.

THE ODD WORD

Colporteur

A person who peddles books, newspapers, or other writings, especially bibles and religious tracts.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Enough is enough

Meaning: To get Enough is enough is to come off worst in a bargain or contest.
Origin: The expression 'enough is enough' is old enough to have been considered proverbial in the 16th century. John Heywood included the phrase in his collection of Tudor language A dialogue conteinyng the nomber in effect of all the prouerbes in the englishe tongue, 1546:
Here is enough, I am satisfied (sayde he.)
Sens enough is enough (sayd I) here maie we,
With that one word take end good, as maie be geast.
For folke say, enough is as good as a feast.
Heywood was obliging enough also to include the first known usage of 'enough is as a good as a feast' which, as he implies, is an even older proverb. At that stage 'enough is enough' meant 'enough is good enough, we don't need more' - another way of saying 'enough is as good as a feast' in fact. 'Enough is enough' wasn't commonly used for several centuries until it received a boost in the civil rights and feminist movements in the USA in the 1960s. The meaning is the expression had by then completely changed, 'enough is good - all I need' to 'I had enough of that - no more'. Since then the use of the expression has grown considerably and now any group who is complaining about anything they want to stop is likely to say, chant or make into a banner 'enough is enough'.
